Ms. Bolton,

Thank you for working as the examiner of my patent application. Regardless of the final outcome, your work will be deeply appreciated.

I am an inventor working from home and have no financial resources for professional assistance on patent applications. My knowledge in patent application is very limited and I am stumbling along.

My responses to your examination are in the attached and are divided into the three parts.

1. Revised statements of Claims

The claims have been rewritten to emphasize the unique features in my invention.
The number of claims has been reduced from four to three, because I only paid for three claims.

2. Difference between my invention and Dwight's patent

There are several notable differences between the crank and pedal assembly in my invention and the assembly in Dwight's patent. They indicate that my invention does not infringe on Dwight's patent.

3. Notes on revised claims

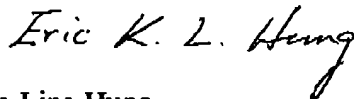

The notes identify the unique features of my invention.

Please kindly acknowledge the reception of this Fax. My e-mail address is eric.hung@sympatico.ca.

I would start making changes to the Description and Claims in my patent application after you are fully satisfied with my responses.

Have a nice day.

Yours Sincerely,

Eric Kam-Ling Hung
